Concern aired over 900-home scheme

• Cheryl Briggs with a rainbow bag

ABINGDON Town Council has drawn criticism from campaigners for rejecting a proposal to fly the rainbow flag from County Hall during next year's Oxford Pride festival.

Council leader Cllr Mike Badcock said the council did not want to set a precedent for organisations wishing to fly their flags from the roof of the listed building.

A petition of more than 1,500 signatures has called for the council's decision to be overturned.

PLANS to build 900 homes on Green Belt land on the northern edge of Abingdon have sparked the community's concern.

The proposals by developers CEG for the 53-hectare site to the north of the town and west of Peachcroft Farm also include a mixed-use local centre and other community amenities.

But local councillors have voiced their disappointment about the plans which have gone out to public consultation, saying there were other sites in the town for the homes without despoiling the Green Belt.

Liberal Democrat town councillor Pat Longerman, who represents Dunmore ward, said: "We were against the plans at the beginning on the Green Belt land. It's a strategy the Tory councillors have done for political reasons because they have far more support building there than if they were to build it on the other sites.

"There were plenty of options in other areas for this site. I'm not saying we don't need houses, we do. I think it's sad that they're building on the Green Belt when there are plenty of places in Abingdon. But the Tory councillors don't care as long as their cronies can make money on the Green Belt."

Vale of White Horse district councillor Margaret Crick, who also represents Dunmore, said: "Its been pushed through without taking any notice of what the local people feel.

"I think it's being roller-coastered and I hope the developers will take notice of what they feel at the consultations. I will be making my views known, and I hope local people will take an interest because many don't realise this is going on."

She added: "The houses would actually be in the parish of Sunningwell but all the people who live there will feel a part of Abingdon.

"Sunningwell does not have any infrastructure for all those people so it will be Abingdon that will carry all the brunt of it."

Dr Peter Collins, chair of the Campaign to Protect Rural England's Vale committee, said:

Oxford child sex trio given a total of 32 years in prison

THREE men have been sentenced to a total of 32 years in prison for a string of child sexual offences against a teenage girl.

Assad Hussain, 35, Aktar Dogar, 35, and Anjum Dogar, 34, were sentenced on Friday in the culmination of a trial which had started in April.

The charges all related to the same victim, who was sexually exploited by the men for more than seven years.

Adrian Foster, Chief Crown Prosecutor for Thames and Chiltern Crown Prosecution Service, said: "The 15-year-old victim was groomed and exploited by a sex gang between November 1999 and April 2007.

By Dominic Thomas

"She was a vulnerable girl with a difficult background. The defendants enticed her into a cycle of abuse and robbed her of her childhood.

"Once befriended, given attention and made to feel wanted, a sexual relationship was established through which the victim was used, abused and exploited for the sexual gratification and entertainment of the defendants and others."

The jury deliberated for 11 days before returning the verdicts on June 21 and 22, with sentencing taking place at Oxford Crown Court on Friday.

• Assad Hussain

• Aktar Dogar

• Anjum Dogar

All of the men were already serving prison sentences since 2013 for their part in a notorious child sex ring after convictions following Operation Bullfinch.

Hussain, of Iffley Road, Oxford, was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment after being convicted of four counts of rape, one count of threat to kill and two counts of indecent assault. He was acquitted of one count of rape and two counts of indecent assault.

Aktar Dogar, of Tawney Street, Oxford, who was already serving a 17-year life sentence at HMP Bullingdon at Arncott, near Bicester, as part of Operation Bullfinch, was given a 10-year jail term to run concurrently after being convicted of one count of indecent assault, three counts of rape and one count of using a threat to kill.

His brother Anjum, 34, also of Tawney Street and also serving a life sentence, was given the same sentence as his brother for one count of rape and one count of indecent assault.

Two other men, Owais Khan, 32, of Belvedere Road, Oxford, who faced one count of indecent assault and five counts of rape, and Alladitta Yousef, 46, of Bodley Road, Oxford, who faced four counts of indecent assault, were acquitted of all charges.

Following the verdicts, the victim issued a statement saying: "This has been a challenging and at times painful process for me. Looking back now I am relieved that I found the strength to speak out. It was easier to make myself heard than it was to hold it all inside.

"This process has in a way been therapeutic for me, as I now feel stronger and I am no longer consumed by my past.

"I would urge any person who is struggling or feeling trapped by any form of abuse to come forward, there are many agencies out there that will be able to help you move on and put the suffering behind you."

The charges stemmed from Operation Sabaton, which saw 150 officers execute warrants at nine properties across Oxford at 6am on June 2 last year.

Teachers strike in school funding dispute

MORE than 1,000 teachers in Oxfordshire are believed to have joined a strike on Tuesday in a dispute over school funding.

Their action saw more than 30 schools in Oxfordshire affected.

The members of the National Union of Teachers staged the one-day walkout, saying school budgets were not keeping pace with rising costs.

Almost 25 per cent of NUT members voted in the strike ballot - of those who voted, 91.7 per cent supported strike action.

Education Secretary Nicky Morgan said the strike was "unnecessary" and "harmful" while schools minister Nick Gibb described the walkout as politically motivated and futile.

In Oxford, the teachers marched and rallied in Oxford city centre at 1pm.

Community events took place at East Oxford Community Centre and the South Oxford Adventure Playground in the morning.

There was also a strike meeting at Wesley Memorial Church in New Inn Hall Street at 11am.

Kevin Courtney, acting general secretary of the NUT, said: "No teacher finds taking strike action easy but the situation in our schools needs to be urgently addressed.

"The effect on children's education is clear – class sizes are going up, subjects are being removed from the curriculum while teaching posts are being cut or not replaced.

"With political parties in turmoil since the EU referendum, it is imperative that education is put to the forefront of every election campaign."

Oxfordshire County Council Green Party group leader David Williams, supported the strike, saying: "In Oxfordshire, high housing costs make the general teacher recruitment and retention crisis even worse than elsewhere."

He claims there is worse to come, with the true impacts of cuts yet to strike.

Warrant issued

FARINGDON: A European arrest warrant has been issued for a Faringdon man who is wanted in connection with a serious sexual assault in France.

Colin Marshall, 48, failed to appear at Westminster Magistrates' Court on June 7 when he was due at an extradition hearing.

He was last seen at 6am on June 7 when he was dropped off at Swindon train station and was planning to get a train to London.

Burglary denied

OXFORD: Two homeless people have denied carrying out a burglary at the Lush store in Oxford's Cornmarket Street.

Gabriel Chamberlain, 42, of no fixed abode, was charged with one count of burglary and one count of failing to answer bail.

Charlotte Pauling, 29, also of no fixed abode, was charged with one count of burglary, one count of failing to answer bail and two counts of possession of class-A drugs.

The burglary charges relate to the theft of £1,250 of goods from the shop in February.

Both denied the charges at Oxford Magistrates Court, and have been granted bail until their trial begins on September 12.

'We have to find our way through risks for science'

MP's plea over EU vote

By Dominic Thomas

OXFORD West and Abingdon MP Nicola Blackwood was among the speakers at Oxfordshire Science Festival over the weekend.

The MP, who chairs the science and technology committee of the House of Commons, spoke on the last day of the 10-day annual festival, which featured events throughout the county.

She was interviewed at Abingdon's Amey Theatre by Guardian correspondent Hannah Devlin, as part of the festival's ATOM event, which celebrated science and technology in Abingdon.

Speaking on the effect of the recent EU referendum result, she said: "Obviously I campaigned strongly for Remain and Oxford voted 70 per cent but we live in a democracy and we have to accept that.

"We now have to find our way through the risks for the science and innovation sector, which is the funding, clarity of networks for collaborations, and access to research."

She also spoke about the role of her Commons committee, saying: "We've just launched an inquiry into Brexit and what I would say to anyone who is part of the science and innovation community is that they can shout loudly, and make the point that science and information is an essential energy for our knowledge economy."

The MP said that evidence about the dangers to the industries were lost in the referendum narrative, adding: "The vote against the establishment came from issues to do with immigration, whereas issues about the economy and science, they faded into insignificance against the desire to have a protest vote."

She discussed how leaving the EU might prove beneficial in terms of developing sectors such as genetic modification, which were being hampered by the EU.

She said: "We've just finished an inquiry and concluded that the EU process is so cumbersome it can be over-conservative in its aims to protect.

"There are also some nations that for whatever reason are anti-science."

Looking to the future of the industry and for Britain, she said: "We need to emphasise the value that we have to Europe in terms of science and innovation in particular.

"The measure of the referendum is not going to be in the result, it's going to be in how we as a nation decide to respond to it. We are open for business and we are still a science super power to be reckoned with and we are going to go from strength to strength."

Director Said Hasnaoi talked about concern within the science of the effect of the country's vote to leave the EU.

"There are a lot of worries about it and we are very concerned because it's a very uncertain time," he said.

Planned Abingdon homes concerns

"CPRE is in favour of finding housing sites but the Green Belt is not the right place for it.

"Green Belts were created with 'all time' in mind to give a green lung and protect our cultural heritage, of which Oxford and Abingdon were important examples."

Dr Collins expressed concern over developers exploiting the "gap between the approval of the National Planning Policy Framework and Local Plans".

He called on the Government planning inspector reviewing the town's Local Plan, to revise the figures in line with "new lower growth post-Brexit economic circumstances".

In his interim report on the Local Plan published last month, the inspector concluded that 'exceptional circumstances' existed to justify removing from the Green Belt the sites allocated for housing to the north of Abingdon and at Radley and Kennington.

Local resident group North Abingdon Local Planning Committee spokesman Ticia Lever said: "While I'm disappointed because it's against the Government's own advice that housing should not overcome the need for Green Belt land, I am pleased, however, that the inspector decided that they would not release any more Green Belt land."

Two public exhibitions are being held - on Saturday, July 16, at Trinity Church, Conduit Road, from 11am to 4pm, and at Tilsley Park on Tuesday, July 19, from 5pm to 8pm.

Fraudster jailed

ABINGDON: A man has been jailed for 28 months after stealing £180,000 from Miele in Abingdon.

Richard Smith, 41, of Exford, Somerset, took the money while working as a credit manager at Miele, giving clients his own bank details instead of the company's before amending the accounts.

He was found to have made 3,024 such amendments before being found out in November last year. He pleaded guilty to one count of fraud at Oxford Magistrates Court.

Prosecuting, Robert Lindsey said Smith was "embroiled in personal debt".

Defence counsel Lucy Tapper said Smith had started to pay £22,000 back into Miele's accounts before his fraud was discovered. He had intended to pay it back in full.

Pool petition

ABINGDON: A petition has been set up calling for Abbey Meadow outdoor swimming pool in Abingdon to be refurbished

The petition, aimed at Vale of White Horse District Council, claims that 81 per cent of people voted for the refurbishment in a council consultation so it could continue to in operate over the summer and for years to come, despite the high cost.

But the council is yet to start the work and campaigners are urging the council to respect the consultation.

Cyclist tackles marathon ride to aid cancer charity

AN Oxford man is to cycle 100 miles for a cancer charity in memory of his aunt and cousin who both died of the same disease within four months of each other.

Martin Laina, 39, will ride the 100-mile cycle challenge for Beating Bowel Cancer after his aunt, Aurelia Laina, and her daughter, Maria Relaño, died.

Mr Laina, who attended Magdalen College School, will tackle the Prudential Ride London-Surrey 100 on Sunday, July 31. The route starts at Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park before following a 100-mile route on closed roads through the capital and into Surrey's countryside.

By George Welch

The route then finishes on the Mall in central London.

Mr Laina, an export sales manager with Derwent in Aylesbury, said: "It was a terrible shock for the family to lose both of them in such a short space of time from the same illness."

Bowel cancer is the UK's second biggest cancer killer – but too many people are unaware of it and it can often be diagnosed too late to be treated.

Each year, about 41,000 people in the UK are diagnosed with the disease, but if caught early, more than 90 per cent of cases can be treated successfully.

Mr Laina, who lives in Botley with his partner James, is an experienced cyclist who has done a number of challenges before. He said: "I'm the sort of cyclist that needs a goal to keep me interested.

"So taking on this challenge for such an amazing cause gives me all the inspiration I need."

County devolution report delayed

A REVIEW into a major shake up of local government in Oxfordshire has been delayed.

As part of devolution plans, the five district and city councils want to abolish Oxfordshire County Council to set up a their own authorities, which would run all services.

Pricewaterhouse Coopers (PwC) was tasked with analysing different options available, but its report, which was due to present its conclusions by the end of June, has taken longer than anticipated.

Cherwell, South Oxfordshire, Vale of White Horse and West Oxfordshire district councils and Oxford City Council jointly commissioned the study with the Cotswold and South Northamptonshire district councils. It is thought the report has cost just under £15,000 per council.

• Oxfordshire County Council's HQ at County Hall

The proposals from the district councils has resulted in a rift between the authorities and the county council is running a rival review.

County leaders stated in April that they would only join the study when assured it would be "fair, even-handed and independent so that all parties can fully co-operate and have confidence in these findings which have such importance for the people of Oxfordshire".

South Oxfordshire said it favoured a devolution plan in order to "simplify local government and give more power to the people of the county".

Ultimately, the Government would need to agree to the creation of three or four local unitary councils for Oxfordshire, but West Oxfordshire said the political transformations "would bring in significant investment in roads, schools and public transport".

Chalk the horse

UFFINGTON: Local residents and volunteers were given the chance to help the National Trust in preserving one of the county's most recognisable landmarks at Uffington, near Wantage, last weekend.

The volunteers were booked into half-hour slots to help re-chalk the iconic White Horse chalk figure.

The National Trust invites locals to take part every year to help maintain the 3,000-year-old landmark, thought to be the oldest such figure in the country, and provides instruction and equipment for them to do so.

For anyone interested in taking part in the event, there will be another opportunity to do so over the Bank Holiday weekend in August.

Asylum figure

OXON: The number of unaccompanied children seeking asylum in Oxfordshire has risen by 40 per cent in a year, according to figures obtained by the BBC.

The figures show that Oxfordshie County Council is caring for 52 children, compared with the figure of 37 last year.

Numbers have risen at councils all over England and is causing local authorities a funding shortfall of about £750,000.

Terminally ill fan gives U's tickets to hospice

By George Welch

A TERMINALLY ill Oxford United fan who was given four months to live last year has donated two season tickets to an Oxford hospice for children and young people.

Cancer patient Steve Dyer wanted to still feel like "a real supporter" despite now living in the USA and hoped he would be able to bring some joy to fans by donating his season tickets to Helen and Douglas House off Cowley Road.

Mr Dyer, 59, was given four months to live when he was diagnosed with bladder cancer in November 2015.

He moved from Oxford to Rochester, New Hampshire, in 1986 but travelled to London to watch his team play at Wembley Stadium in April this year.

The U's lost that day to Barnsley 3-2, but head coach Michael Appleton invited him to meet the team.

The opportunity came about after Oxford United's chairman Darryl Eales heard of his story and decided to help him watch the JPT final and tick an item off his bucket list.

Helen and Douglas House described his donation as an "amazing gesture".

The hospice provides care for children and young adults with life-shortening conditions.

Mr Dyer said: "This season I decided to buy two season tickets. Knowing that I can't make the games, I still want to feel like a real supporter."

He said he made the donation so "someone else can enjoy the mighty U's for me".

Mr Dyer took to Facebook to send a message to his friends: "I have a challenge for all of my friends this week. Go out there a help a stranger...maybe someone going through hard times.

"Show some love to someone that you wouldn't even think about.

Ok I did it!. Some of you know my situation In that I live in the states and have a rare cancer. My Doctors told me that I have about 4 months. Well that was last November. I'm an Oxford boy born and bred and love my Team Oxford United. Last season Darryl Eales and Katharine Orman from radio Oxford got a hold of my story and Darryl made it possible for me to take my son to Wembley for the JP Final. It's was such a wonderful gift and something I will be forever grateful for. So this season I (with the help of Katherine Orman and Oxford United) decided to buy two season tickets. Knowing that I can't make the games, I still want to feel like a real supporter. So with Katherine's help I have donated the tickets too the Helen, Douglas House. So that someone else can enjoy the mighty Us for me. I bought the tickets today and Oxford United will be giving them to the house for use for the season. I gotta tell ya. It feels good Steve

University updates portraits

OXFORD University is trying to change its image by commissioning new portraits by artists to celebrate its diversity and inclusion.

The second phase of a project is now underway with students being asked for suggestions for 25 new portraits of living figures related to the university.

The Diversifying Portraiture project launched in May 2014 and secured funding for 25 new portraits worth £900 each.

An Oxford University statement said: "We have now asked the University community for suggestions for 25 fresh portraits of living figures connected to Oxford, representing our diversity in gender, race, disability and LGBTQ identity."

Nominations close on July 8 and the choices are to be announced next year.

For the first phase more than 250 portraits of pioneering individuals who challenged stereotypes that were already on display around Oxford were collected and displayed online, at lectures, and events across the university.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Oxfordshire area from their local depots and manager James Miller agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give James a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Rainbow flag sparks council row

ABINGDON Town Council has come under fire for their decision not to fly a rainbow flag from County Hall during next year's Oxford Pride event.

A proposal to fly the flag was put forward by town councillors Samantha Bowring and Neil Fawcett but was rejected in a vote at Wednesday's full council meeting last week.

Cllr Bowring told the Guardian: "In this day and age I really didn't think it was a controversial thing. So I was quite surprised by some of the things that were said. I really wasn't expecting these sorts of arguments. They were a bit sort of stuck in the past."

Former town council leader Sandy Lovatt, who spoke in opposition to the motion, retracted a statement at the meeting in which he said there were 'aspects' of the gay pride movement he had 'reservations' about.

Clarifying his comments, he said: "I don't know that much about [the movement], but for a group that are only eight per cent of the population they seem to be demanding rights and privileges over and above their normal rights.

"What gives them the right to fly a flag at an official flag station over any other organisation? This is the policy of all town councils, not just Abingdon."

By Dominic Thomas

Mike Badcock stated the concerns were that flying the flag would set "a clear precedent" which would mean that the council would come under pressure for other flags to be flown.

"The decision which we made was made on the grounds set out above and is not a judgment on the merits of the rainbow flag and what it represents."

Chairman of Oxford Pride, Rob Jordan, who lives in Abingdon, said: "I'm obviously disappointed because of what the flag represents and it's a shame that they don't fly it.

"We know that just a few years ago they changed their policy to allow an Armed Forces Day flag to be flown, so I don't see a problem with doing the same again.

"I'm hopeful the council will look at the support that we have gathered from the Abingdon town's people themselves."

A petition to overrule the decision has gained more than 1,500 signatures online.

Among its supporters is Abingdon Green Party member Cheryl Briggs, who said: "This is giving the wrong message to everyone for what Abingdon stands for."

Man denies murder of Oxford art dealer

A MAN has pleaded not guilty of murdering an Oxford art and book dealer found dead in his home.

Michael Danaher, 51, of Hadrians Court in Peterborough, Cambridgeshire, pleaded not guilty to Adrian Greenwood's murder at Oxford Crown Court on Friday, July 1.

The body of Mr Greenwood, 42, was discovered by his cleaner in his four-storey home in Iffley Road on Thursday, April 7.

• Adrian Greenwood

Emergency services were called to the scene at 2.58pm and Iffley Road was closed for more than 24 hours.

A post mortem carried out in April gave a cause of death as multiple stab wounds to the neck and chest.

The last sighting of Mr Greenwood before his death was at Sainsbury's supermarket in Oxford Road, Kidlington, at about 6pm on Tuesday, April 5.

He studied philosophy, politics and economics at Christ Church, Oxford.

After his studies, Mr Greenwood began selling books online and accumulated five garages full of 25,000 books until he began dealing in rare and antique books.

Mr Danaher's plea was heard via a video link from Woodhill Prison in Milton Keynes at Oxford Crown Court on Friday afternoon.

The trial has been adjourned until October 3 in a case that will last two to three weeks.

Mr Danaher has been remanded in custody until then.

Men arrested after robberies

TWO robberies involving two men in a car asking for directions in Oxford and Littlemore are believed to be linked, police say.

The men in a black Ford Focus asked a 20-year-old man for directions to the city centre from Longworth Road in Jericho before demanding money and assaulting him at 12.30am on June 28. The victim escaped and the car drove towards Walton Street.

On the same night at about 1.10am in Long Road, Littlemore, a 42-year-old woman was stopped by two men in a black car asking for directions. The men stole her bag from her arm. In an bid to retrieve the bag, the victim was dragged alongside the car and broke her arm.

Police believe the same offenders are responsible for both incidents.

Two 20-year-old men from Didcot have been arrested on suspicion of robbery.

They have been bailed until August 3.

Saying thanks

OXON: Oxford's John Radcliffe Hospital is to receive £3,000 from an Aylesbury man as a thank-you for saving his family.

Kevin Smees' partner Nicola Lansdown, 38, collapsed at home with a brain tumour just two days before she was due to give birth in May.

Doctors performed an emergency caesarean, and Ms Lansdown was put in an induced coma for four weeks.

Mr Smees began fundraising after their daughter Lexi was born.

Robbery charges

OXFORD: Two men and a woman have been charged after a 34-year-old man was kicked to the ground and stabbed during a robbery in the churchyard at St Mary and John Church in Cowley Road on Monday night last week.

Charlie Paterson, 29, of Boundary Brook Road, Oxford, is charged with one count of robbery, while Aaron Johnson, 27, of Mathern Way, Chepstow, faces one count of assault.

Both appeared at Oxford Magistrates Court on Wednesday and were granted conditional bail.

Kerry Lofthouse, 23, of Abingdon Road, Oxford, who appeared before magistrates on Friday, is charged with robbery.

Airfield is earmarked as site for 3,500 homes

By Dominic Thomas

SOUTH Oxfordshire District Council has put Chalgrove Airfield forward as its recommended location for 3,500 homes by 2032.

The former Second World War airfield was given preference as the council's site for its Local Plan development.

A public consultation period of eight weeks has been opened so residents can discuss their views of the plan and six other options.

Among them is a Green Belt site in Grenoble Road, which the district council went against selecting despite support from city council leader Bob Price.

SODC leader John Cotton said: "Chalgrove Airfield was put ahead of other options because it's not on Green Belt land. Of the seven sites, five of them were on Green Belt land, so given that we had that option we then felt that it narrowed the choices. The fact that it is on brown-field land also stands in its favour as such sites are recommended for reuse."

"We believe based on our evidence that it's the site that best suits our requirements and the needs of people moving to the area, for example a household where one person commutes to Oxford and the other to High Wycombe, rather than having a site on the doorstep of Oxford."

Richard Harding, chair of the South Oxfordshire's Campaign for Rural England branch, said: "We prefer the Chalgrove Airfield option to the other sites, which we fear would encroach on the Green Belt. We are concerned that if the site was developed that it would need some careful planning and investment in our transport infrastructure, which has not yet been addressed by the plans.

"What we are also doubtful about is that whether these projections are grossly inflated. We don't believe we need these 3,500 new homes by 2032, but if we are going to have them then we need some very careful and quite big investment in our infrastructure to make it work."

The public consultation will see 16 public events taking place around the county from next week.

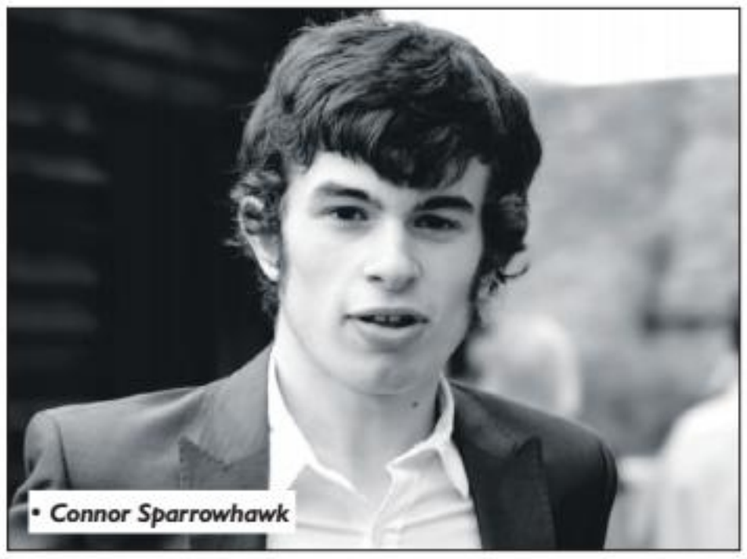
Trust chief set to keep her job

THE chief executive of the heavily criticised Southern Health NHS Foundation Trust will keep her job, it was announced last week.

There had been calls for Katrina Percy to resign after the trust had been repeatedly blamed for failing to protect vulnerable patients and for failing to fully investigate unexplained deaths. Families of the patients who had died at the hands of the trust had called for Ms Percy to be sacked but, following a review of the failings, the trust wants her to stay.

This is because the trust claims there was no evidence of incompetence or negligence.

An NHS England investigation found only 272 of the 722 deaths in the trust over the previous four years were dealt with properly – the Oxford case of 18-year-old Connor Sparrowhawk was not one of them.



• Connor Sparrowhawk

In June, the trust accepted responsibility for the death of Mr Sparrowhawk, who drowned in a bath at Slade House in Oxford. It admitted it "caused" the death of the young man, who suffered an epileptic seizure before he died in July 2013, and offered his family £80,000 compensation.

But, following a six-week review, Ms Percy will continue in her role, interim chair Tim Smart said because the executive team had been "too stretched to guarantee high quality services".

But the health minister, Alistair Burt, said the decision about the future of the chief executive was "not yet concluded" and he would discuss the matter with Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt.

"It's a wonderful event. It's great to get to see lots of rowing. It's very civilised here. We're very excited to be here."

Ali Brown, Abingdon School rowing coach
"It's been okay this year, the main thing is to get the boys racing and make sure they enjoy the rowing. It's the big event of the year for us at the school. We also lay on hospitality for some of the Old Abingdonians as well, which is a big thing for the school as well. There's also a lot of them racing here too and we are very proud of them of course."

Regatta hits town

ROWERS and revellers alike descended on the river Thames in their droves last week as Henley played host to its world-renowned Royal Regatta.

As well as world-class rowing, the five day regatta is also one of the highlights of the social season.

The event sees 20 classes of races competed over the five days, in the format of one-on-one knock out races, attracting crews and crowds from all over the world.

On each day, thousands of spectators gather on the riverbank in the enclosures to cheer on the rowers and enjoy the festivities.

The event runs uniquely without a sponsor and is financed completely by the subscriptions of its members.

Anthony Corcoran, 75, from Worthing, who has been a regular at the Regatta since competing for Westminster School in 1959, said: "Every year it gets bigger and bigger, and the rowing gets better and better - which is the main thing.

"I don't come for the social scene. I always take friends with me but I make sure they watch at least some of the rowing instead of just getting drunk on Pimm's."

Parents Andrew and Natasha Wilkinson, from York, who had brought their newly born daughter along for the first time, said: "We come down most years, mostly to meet up with our friends from London that we don't see very often, and catch up.

"We do follow the rowing more than most though, we came to support the York crews but unfortunately none of them made it through the qualifying this year.

"I've heard some people say things like, 'I didn't know there was rowing at Henley'."

Others were less blasé about their intentions, such as one man, who did not wish to give his name, who said: "I haven't been for 10 years. A friend of mine is a member of the Leander Club, but I'm not interested in rowing.

"I've been about six times but I've never watched a single race. It's just great fun, you can just drink Pimm's all day and get absolutely hammered."

Meanwhile out at the boat house, rower Mike Alloway, who celebrated his boat's 1986 victory with a row-over said: "The thing about rowing is that it's an amateur sport so people don't do it for the money, and so the amount of commitment and the drive it takes to compete at a high level is incredible."

The event this year attracted more crews and nationalities than ever before, with 629 crews from 27 nations taking part, with this year's blue ribbon race the Grand Challenge Cup being won by Hollandia Roeiclub from Holland, who beat Nautilus Rowing Club.

Cashing in on TV success

• The Causton Town Hall sign (photo by Caroline Flint)

By Samantha McGregor

THAME has become one of the most popular locations for filming a television detective series and now businesses are hoping to cash in.

The ITV show Midsomer Murders, which is broadcast in more than 100 countries, is filmed in and around Thame and at other South Oxfordshire locations and is based on Caroline Graham's Chief Inspector Barnaby books.

It stars Neil Dudgeon as Detective Chief Inspector John Barnaby, who works for Causton CID covering the fictional county of Midsomer.

Last year, the number of Midsomer visitors was estimated at 15,000 and they spent about £1m in the area, according to Thame Town Council.

Now the town's businesses are being urged to use its association with the television show to help develop tourism.

Thame Town Council say there is potential for hotels and B&Bs, restaurants, pubs, cafes, retailers, tour guides, coach operators and the town's museum to cash in on the popularity of the show.

Last week, more than 50 local businesses attended the workshop to do just that.

Among the speakers was one of the original Midsomer scriptwriters, who said a billion people across the world have now seen the show, and Sarah Osborne, of Tourism Angles, who said the show had 6.5 million fans in the UK and millions more across 100 countries.

Thame mayor Linda Emery said: "People were really surprised to learn how many episodes Thame has been in.

"We have around 15 specific filming locations, as well as a lot of recognisable street scenes from the show.

"Midsomer visitors can take selfies with our Causton Town Hall sign and enjoy a Barnaby Bun at Rumsey's Chocolaterie, and the workshop produced lots of other great ideas we want to explore."

Jean Gamester, of Semaphora Consulting, who facilitated the Midsomer workshop, said: "There was a fantastic buzz, and it was great to see such enthusiasm and energy.

"I'm looking forward to seeing how Midsomer develops in Thame, including tours, merchandise, food and drink offerings."

Neil Ainsworth, owner of The Argyll pub in Henley, another Midsomer location, told of his success with Midsomer Ale and new products like Midsomer Pickle.

And Tim Soar, owner of Long Crendon Manor, near Thame, which receives many Midsomer visitors, said he would like to see Thame playing a greater part in Midsomer tourism.

Midsomer plaques are being created which will be installed at filming locations to further help attract visitors.

Views sought on housing

THAME Town Council will hold a public meeting this month after proposals were put forward for 600 more homes to be built in the town.

A consultation has been started over South Oxfordshire District Council Local Plan 2032 preferred options consultation.

It was launched at its Neighbourhood Plan Continuity Committee meeting on Tuesday last week.

It comes as the local plan by neighbouring council Aylesbury Vale includes plans to build 5,550 homes in or close to Haddenham.

Town councillors have raised concerns that Thame's infrastructure could be unable to cope with hundreds more homes.

South Oxfordshire council held its first consultation meeting on Saturday at the town hall. It says a review of the Thame Neighbourhood plan could help find more land for housing development.

Thame Town Council will hold a public meeting in mid-July to gauge reaction from residents and help inform its own response to the Local Plan.

The town council says it is "critical" that residents make their views known and spell out any "impacts" they believe more development would have on the town. The deadline for responses in August 19.

Thame's cattle market has already been identified for redevelopment for retail and other town-centre uses as part of the neighbourhood plan.

A Local Plan is a document which sets out where in a district future development for housing and employment should take place.

Battle to become next PM

By George Welch

OXFORD-EDUCATED Theresa May and Michael Gove are both competing to become the next Prime Minister.

The Conservative party leadership battle was sparked by David Cameron's decision to step down as Prime Minister after losing the EU referendum, which saw the country vote by 52 per cent to 48 per cent to leave the EU.

Mrs May, 59, and Mr Gove, 48, both attended Oxford University for their undergraduate studies, with the former reading geography at St Hugh's College while the latter studied English at Lady Margaret Hall.

Mrs May attended three county schools: Heythrop Primary School, St Juliana's Convent School for Girls and Holton Park Girls' Grammar School, near Wheatley.

And both May and Gove believe they have what it takes to lead the country and Conservative Party post-Brexit.

Home Secretary and Maidenhead MP Mrs May, who has also served in important positions under the leadership of Michael Howard, Ian Duncan Smith and William Hague, wanted Britain to remain in the EU. She says she can offer the "strong leadership" and unity the UK needs, and promised a "positive vision" for the country's future.

But Mr Gove, who joined the Oxford University Conservative Association during his time in Oxford, was a prominent figure in the Leave campaign.

Energy minister Andrea Leadsom, who campaigned to leave the EU, has also thrown her hat in the ring. She served as a South Oxfordshire district councillor from 2003 to 2007.

She joined former Defence Secretary Liam Fox and Work and Pensions Secretary Stephen Crabb among the runners.

But former Henley MP and London mayor Boris Johnson has ruled himself out of the leadership bid, saying: "Having consulted colleagues and in view of the circumstances in Parliament, I have concluded that person cannot be me."

Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt has pulled out of a leadership bid and given his backing to Mrs May, as has Education Secretary Nicky Morgan.

In Tuesday's ballot of 329 Tory MPs, Mrs May finished top with 165, followed by Mrs Leadsom on 66, Mr Gove 48, Mr Crabb 34 , and Mr Fox 16.

Mr Fox was eliminated from the vote and Mr Crabb also withdrew.

Cameron has said he intends to remain as Witney's MP in West Oxfordshire once he has stepped down which, he says, will be before October. His successor is to be announced in September.

£30m proposals for major city routes

OXFORDSHIRE County Council have published reports highlighting proposals to improve three key roads into Oxford.

More than £30 million could be spent on measures to help pedestrians, public transport and cyclists on the Botley, Woodstock and Banbury roads.

The plans are part of the council's Oxford Transport Strategy, in an attempt to deal with the projected growth of 85,000 new jobs and 100,000 new homes by 2031.

The studies are a 'first step' in the process, although there is currently no money available to begin improvements.

For Botley Road, there are proposals for cycle lanes, including some 'hybrid' lanes which segregate cyclists from vehicle and pedestrian areas, improvements to pedestrian crossings and enhancements for public transport.

On both the Woodstock and Banbury roads, enhanced bus lanes, more cycle lanes, pedestrian enhancements as well as some junction modifications have been suggested.

David Nimmo Smith, cabinet member for transport, said: "The challenge now is to secure the money. This may seem like a big challenge, but Oxfordshire County Council has a strong track record for succeeding and investing many millions in the transport system."

Concern over health plans

OXFORD Health NHS Foundation Trust have tabled their initial plans for reform of health services in Oxfordshire.

The plans outlined by a Transformation Board made up of Trust executives, clinical commissioning groups and GPs were put forward at a public meeting on Thursday, and form part of a national plan to reform the future of health services.

The plans are an attempt to develop new models of care and the next generation of integrated GP, community and hospital services over the next five years.

By Dominic Thomas

An emphasis of the plans discussed at a meeting of the Health Overview Scrutiny Committee (HOSC) was on a 'cultural change' in the delivery of services, with a focus on individuals taking greater responsibility for their own health.

Despite referring to the financial need to close a £500 million shortfall in costs across Oxfordshire, West Berkshire and Buckinghamshire, board chief executive Stuart Bell stressed that there was no specific plans yet for cuts to services.

"We are not at the point yet where we have got specific options identified in relation to some of these changes," he said.

"That's partly because we want the discussion about what those might be and the criteria under which they might be judged to be something that we discuss over the next few months before we get to the formal consultation period."

However, some of the audience at the meeting voiced their concern.

Joan Stewart, of the Keep the NHS Public campaign, voiced her concerns, saying: "We know that the scenario that persuaded the Treasury to part with £8.5 billion instead of the £20bn included these new models of care, because they supposedly would deliver £22 billion of so-called efficiency savings. But that's impossible, and we know it. We're being softened up to prepare for cuts."

HOSC chairman Yvonne Constantine reflected the general concern of the committee that the plans were too vague, saying: "People want to know how will these changes affect their specific area, how it will impact on them."

The recent decision to leave the European Union was also referred to by Mr Bell, who stated in relation to ensuring there are sufficient health care staff in Oxfordshire by saying: "Obviously recent events mean that its important that we reinforce that message that we want to attract people with the best talent and skills that we need, not just nationally but internationally."

Public consultations for the plans are due to be held in the autumn as the Transformation Board continues to develop its plans.

Help for Africa

STONESFIELD: A digital manager from an Oxfordshire village will be supporting some of the world's poorest people during a Thames Water-funded mission to Malawi next month.

Acacia Smithson, 24, is one of four Thames Water employees representing the company in the world's poorest country.

During her six days in Africa, the campaigners will visit Malawi cities and towns to discover what support the water company can offer to best help improve facilities.

They also hope to generate fundraising support.

Emaciated pregnant horse and her foal saved by animal charity

BLUE Cross Burford saved a dying pregnant rescue horse in one of the worst welfare cases the charity has ever seen.

The elderly and emaciated horse, named Cinderella, was one of a group of abandoned horses found fly grazing.

But after being rushed to Blue Cross Burford for emergency care, Cinderella has blossomed into a happy, healthy horse and recently gave birth to a healthy foal.

Cinderella, a thoroughbred cross, was in such a terrible state that a vet advised the police to seize her immediately to try and save her life.

With a body condition score of just 0.5 on a scale rating 1 as emaciated and 5 as obese, nearly every bone was protruding from Cinderella's frail body.

Her skin was dehydrated and covered with scabs and she was using the meagre nutrients she had to keep her unborn foal alive.

Vicki Alford, horse manager at Blue Cross Burford said: "I have worked in welfare for more than 10 years and have witnessed so many tragic sights but I have never seen a horse in such a pitiful state as this.

"Thankfully her foal was wriggling and kicking so we knew we had a chance to save them both, albeit a slim one."

Despite developing plancentisis – a potentially life-threatening infection to both her and her foal – she gave birth to a healthy skewbald filly foal named Princess, much to the delight of the charity.

Singing for the Somme's fallen

By Samantha McGregor

PUPILS from Kingham Hill School, near Chipping Norton, travelled to Paris to take part in a commemorative concert marking the centenary of the start of the Battle of the Somme.

More than 20 pupils, aged 11 to 18, went to Dernancourt Church, France, to take part in a special service to honour the thousands of soldiers who died in the battle during the First World War.

Friday, July 1, marked the start of the Battle of the Somme, which lasted almost five months and saw over a million causalities.

The school choir performed a range of songs including a new arrangement by head of music Dan Chambers written especially for the concert which combined the two national anthems of France and Great Britain into a single piece to illustrated the partnership that has continued between the two nations for 100 years.

The choir also performed on the Videopolis stage at Disneyland Paris and the Jardin du Luxembourg.

Mr Chambers said: "It was great to see so many pupils taking the opportunity to learn more about the history of France during our trips to Bastille, Place de la Concord and the Palace of Versailles.

"Everyone was especially moved to have been asked to perform in memory of those who died serving their country."

Following the concert, Gareth Williams, head of languages at Kingham Hill, exchanged gifts with the Association Centenaire de la Guerre 14/18 as a mark of respect to the fallen soldiers.

The Association gave the school a collection of shell cases and barbed wire pickets dug up from surrounding fields, which will form a permanent exhibition piece in the school's new library to commemorate the part former Kingham Hill students played in the First World War.

Pupils also visited the grave of former pupil Private Sidney Collier, of the 9th Battalion of the Devonshire Regiment, who died on the first day of the Somme battle.

Esther Savage, a Year 12 pupil, added: "The activities have been so diverse and yet there's not been a moment I haven't loved. Paris has been quite possibly the best trip I've been on at Kingham."

Flywheel success

VINTAGE aircraft and historic cars made for a spectacular weekend at Bicester's Flywheel Festival.

Thousands of people turned out for the second annual event hosted at Bicester Heritage, a former RAF training base, off Skimmingdish Lane.

An array of classic cars were on display such as Jaguar, Lotus, Fergison and Ferrari, while others took to the racing track on Saturday and Sunday.

Sir Stirling Moss was at the event both days, starting cars on the track and signing autographs for fans.

In the air there were flying displays from the Royal Air Force Battle of Britain memorial Flight and the Tiger 9 group, which flew 1930s Tiger Moth aircraft in formation flying displays.

There was also a performance from The Great War Display Team who showcased their dog-fighting routine, flying a Sopwith Triplane, BE2c and a Fokker Dr1 Triplane. Also, making a rare appearance was a North American Veteran World War II P-51 Mustang fighter aircraft and a Spitfire.

As well as cars and planes, there was a host of stalls and displays including military vehicles and memorabilia, and people were able to have a ride in a tank.

Organiser of Flywheel, Richard Grafton, said: "There was a real buzz to the event and we were thrilled at the combination of avid motoring and aviation enthusiasts alongside the families who were able to enjoy a fantastic day out."

Biker flips onto roof

BICESTER: A motorcyclist hit a car and somersaulted over it landing in a seated position on the roof.

On Saturday at 12.24pm the biker was "filtering" past a queue of traffic on the A41 just outside Bicester, when he struck the side of a car and somersaulted landing on top of the car.

Firefighters used a special high access platform - normally used for casualty extrications from lorries – to rescue the motorcyclist. He was taken to Oxford's John Radcliffe Hospital as a precaution, but was believed to be uninjured.

Station manager Mick Clarke described it as "one of the most extraordinary incidents I have seen in my 20 years of service".

Thieves strike

BICESTER: Thieves smashed a window to a property in Churchill Road and stole jewellery.

The incident happened between midnight and 4pm on Wednesday, June 29.

WIN tickets to Fairport's Cropredy 2016!

ANYONE attending a village fete in Cropredy in the 70's would have looked at you as if you were insane had you tried to convince them that nearly 40 years later Fairport Convention's contribution to village life was to grow to one of the most loved festivals in the country.

From it's simple musical session over an afternoon the festival has grown to a three day monster that draws 20,000 fans to see up to twenty different bands that cover a wide range of music.

This year's headliners for the 38th festival include

Gryphon the legendary British prog-folk band, on its first visit to Cropredy with an exhilarating mix of old and new material. Hayseed Dixie giving American bluegrass a rocking edge with their hillbilly versions of classic rock songs. and UK legends Madness performing hit after hit from their 35 year career.

Friday will see Steeleye Span make a welcome return to Cropredy, closely followed by the headlining Bootleg Beatles.

Closing date: Friday, July 22

As ever Saturday will start with Richard Digance with the day featuring a wide range of music from artists as diverse as Maia, Gilmore & Roberts and Babylon Circus before Ralph McTell takes the last spot before Fairport Convention and Guests' 2 hour headlining set.

If it was just the music it would be enough but Cropredy also has an amazing relaxed atmosphere that is unequalled at any other UK summer event. This year the festival runs from Thursday the 11th to Saturday 13th of August. For more details and to book tickets visit www.fairportconvention.com

We have a family ticket pack for the weekend for one lucky winner who will get to enjoy three days of good music and real ale. The ticket pack includes a pair of adult weekend tickets, camping ticket and up to three under 12 child tickets.

Second prize is a pair of adult tickets to the Saturday including camping.

All you have to do to be in with a chance of winning one of these amazing prizes is answer this simple question.

Q: Which British prog rock band is making it's Cropredy debut this year?

WIN tickets to the revving and rocking Silverstone Classic

SilverstoneClassic 29 | 30 | 31 JULY 2016

SERVING up a mouth-watering cocktail of classic car racing, classic rock music and great family entertainment, the annual Silverstone Classic is fast becoming one of the summer's top festivals... and it's not just for petrolheads!

Last year's three-day extravaganza attracted more than 100,000 visitors and, building on that success, July's event promises to be even bigger and better.

This year's live music line-up is topped by The Boomtown Rats, Reef and The Stranglers with several premier league tribute bands pumping out familiar hits from yesteryear to get the Friday and Saturday night parties rolling.

If anything, the daytime entertainment is even more upbeat, with unrivalled 50-car grids featuring the full spectrum of historic motor sport all competing on the legendary Silverstone Grand Prix Circuit.

Adding to the nostalgia, the infield areas are home to more than 10,000 privately-owned classic road cars hosted by more than 120 motor clubs. The result is acres and acres adorned with epic Ferraris, Aston Martins, Lamborghinis, Maseratis and other equally evocative machinery.

Closing date: Wednesday, July 20

And there's yet more for all ages to see and do. The family entertainment includes a vintage funfair, auction, adrenaline zone, shopping village, live car restoration, a car clinic hosted by TV presenter Mike Brewer, copious high-flying air displays, interactive driving experiences... there really is something for everyone!

What's more, along with the concerts and trackside grandstand seats, the vast majority of these wonderful activities and attractions are included in the admission fee. Adult ticket prices start from £42 and there are special rates for families, camping and weekend tickets. For full details log onto the official www.silverstoneclassic.com website.

If you're feeling lucky, though, we have a weekend pass for two to give away as well as three pairs of Sunday tickets as runner-up prizes. All you have to do is answer the following simple question. .

Q: Which chart-topping band fronted by Bob Geldof is headlining on Friday night at the 2016 Silverstone Classic? The Stranglers, Reef or The Boomtown Rats ?

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Caremark offers a specialised care service for people who need support with day-to-day life but want to stay in their own home. Caremark's live-in care service enables you to remain as independent as possible, whilst being fully supported by a full time live-in Care Worker.

Care at home

You will have choice and control over your life. You can live in familiar surroundings with family, friends, your own possessions, furniture and pets too!

We will agree a personal support plan with you, detailing what kind of care and support you need, including your preferences. You'll enjoy one-to-one support from a fully trained Care Worker. Youll be able to relax, knowing that there is someone there for you seven days a week, to help with your housework, personal care and shopping or simply to provide good company.

Your satisfaction and happiness are vital to us

We will match your Care Workers to your needs. We will regularly monitor and review your satisfaction to make sure you always receive the highest standard of care.

Zombies to hit stage

AFTER incredible performances from Blue, Tom Jones and Lulu last year, Oxfordshire's very own Cornbury Festival is back.

By James Richings

Taking place at the Great Tew Estate, near Chipping Norton, the three-day festival from Friday, July 8 to Sunday, July 10, will see big names such as Lemar, Seal, James Morrison and All Saints perform.

And joining the list of popular musicians and bands at this year's event will be rock band The Zombies.

Formed in 1962, the group have released a total of 29 albums, over the last 54 years, but only five of those have been studio releases with the others being either live or compilation records.

But just like the name of their latest album, 71-year-old founder band member Rod Argent believes that the band has 'Still Got That Hunger' when it comes to making music.

"We've just changed our management structure so I'm very excited to be performing at this year's Cornbury Festival," he said.

"They were very keen for us to do some festivals this year, and when you come to see us at Cornbury you can expect to see and hear some of the classics such as, 'She's Not There', 'Tell Her No', 'Leave Me Be' along with songs that we have never played live before.

"So all in all, it is expected to be a great show at Cornbury."

A total of 11 different musicians have represented The Zombies since their formation over 50 years ago with Colin Blunstone as lead vocalist, Rod on organ, guitarist Paul Atkinson, Paul Arnold on bass and drummer Hugh Grundy being the group's first line-up.

Despite constant changes in its line-up over the years, the band produced one of their finest albums to date, which still surprises co-founder Rod.

"Our album, 'Odessey and Oracle', is ranked as number 100 on the Rolling Stone's list of the 500 Greatest Albums of All Time," Rod told the Guardian.

"It's quite extraordinary to think that because when it first came out in1968, it didn't sell that many copies.

"It has become a bit of a cult hero of an album and it sells more as time goes on, rather than selling loads of copies when it first came out."

Glory years sought

WITH all of his albums peaking in UK charts, it's no surprise that Bryan Ferry is regarded as one the country's most respected artists.

His song-writing and keyboard skills, along with his deep husky voice, made Bryan one of the most recognisable musicians of his generation.

By James Richings

And the 70-year-old wants to recapture the glory years when he appears at this year's Cornbury Festival.

And as well as performing popular tracks such as 'Let's Stick Together' and 'This Is Tomorrow', which made his name during the 1970s, tracks from his latest album, 'Avonmore', will also be showcased at the venue on the Great Tew estate.

"Generally festivals are much better now than they used to be," the entertainer told the Guardian.

"The sound is better and the facilities are more up to scratch.

"You also get a chance to play to a new audience of people that don't necessarily know your music, which is always an interesting challenge.

"Each festival is, of course, different, in the last couple of years we've played Glastonbury, Coachella, Bestival – each one has a different vibe.

With a total of 30 million record sales worldwide, Bryan is one of Britain's best-selling musicians, but his success is not just down to the original tunes he has written.

Also known for performing and recording a number of covers during his career, his renditions of songs from the Great American Song Book have been praised by fans and critics, with his 1973 debut album, 'These Foolish Things', being somewhat of a groundbreaker.

His inaugural record just consisted of cover tracks from famous musicians.

And even though some fans questioned the lack of originality, many praised the album with famous tracks by the likes of Bob Dylan, The Beach Boys and The Rolling Stones being given a different style.

The album put Bryan on the music map from which he has not looked back since. To mark his success, the singer was awarded a CBE in June 2011 in the Queen's Birthday Honours list for his contribution to the British music industry.

"We will be making a selection of songs from the tour set we are currently engaged in," he said.

"These are songs taken from many albums, both from my Roxy Music and solo careers."

"And I've heard very good things about the festival–that it's got quite a laid-back atmosphere and it's in a beautiful part of the country."

The musician will be performing on the main stage on Saturday, July 9.

SAVE THE LAST DANCE FOR ME
From the team that brought you the huge success that is Dreamboats and Petticoats, Save the Last Dance for Me will take you back through the 'music and magic' of the early 60's, a time when each passing week brought another Rock 'n' Roll classic.
Written by two of TV's most talented writers Laurence Marks and Maurice Gran (Birds of a Feather, Good Night Sweetheart, The New Statesman and many more) and featuring the hits of Elvis's favourite writers, Doc Pomus and Mort Shuman, this nostalgic, feel-good journey will transport you back to music's golden era as we follow two teenage sisters through the summer of '63.
For the first time without their parents - the sisters embark on a holiday to the seaside. Full of freedom and high spirits they meet a handsome young American who invites them to a dance at the local U.S. Air force base. But young love and holiday romance is never as simple as it sounds, and the sisters soon realise that while the world around them is still watching itself in black and white, life and love can be much more colourful.

Comedian gears up his gags for festival

AS well as having a number of top classic singers and musicians at this year's Cornbury Festival, there will also be a fine range of comedy in store.

Comedians from all over the country will arrive at the Great Tew estate, near Chipping Norton, to share their gags in front of thousands of people.

They include fresh-faced comedian Dane Baptiste.

The funnyman, who was nominated for 'best newcomer' at the 2014 Edinburgh Fringe Festival, comes to the Oxfordshire event as part of his 'Reasonable Doubts' UK tour.

"The name of the tour is from the title of Jay-Z's debut album, where he is struggling with his loyalty to the stage and the streets," Dane told the Guardian. "The show is about me questioning everything including my street credibility which currently is at zero.

"But I'm not a snitch. I want to make that clear."

Despite Dane not being household name yet, he has already achieved some success. Numerous television appearances on panel shows, sold-out gigs at the last two Edinburgh Festivals and a spot on the TV show Live at the Apollo filmed at the Hammersmith Apollo are helping Dane to gradually pave his way in the comedy world.

By James Richings

"On the night, you can expect to see an initially nervous act flourish before your eyes with observational comedy about the things that keep most people up at night, irrespective of their mental health, with hilarious punchlines that will make them think and make my very existence go viral," Dane said.

He added: "It's not hard to make people laugh until they're in an environment when they're expected to."

"That's when people become guarded and observe a mob mentality, which you have to break.

"Some of the best advice I got from a comic was 'You have to laugh at yourself first' and that's helped immensely."

The show is suitable for over-16s.

Thame Cars, putting the customers first!

By James Richings

IN a post-Brexit world of uncertainty, many local consumers are making more considered choices with their major purchases.

Investing in a new car is one of the biggest financial commitments we make in our lifetime. Which is why this economically confused climate is causing such consternation for consumers considering the purchase of a new car.

One local business that has been bucking the trend for caution is THAME Cars, who have recently relocated to bigger premises on the site of the old Ford garage on Rycote Lane. Their core offering of high quality cars at a fraction of dealership prices has positioned them as the obvious choice for customers looking for certainty and leadership.

Back in 1994 when they first opened for business in Thame, founder Karl White was confident that he had stumbled on a need for just such a local service.

"On the first day we opened, we sold our first car by lunchtime, and by tea time two more had rolled out the gates", Karl proudly reminisced. "But I knew that if I was going to grow the business we were going to have to do things differently to everybody else."

So he set about creating a customer-centric business model, that stripped out the confusion and made the process of buying a car as straight forward and enjoyable as possible.

That was 22 years ago and since then a lot has happened to both the business and the world we live in.

"We've always been focused on the customer, and a part of that has been to offer the best products at the best price", said Karl. "Whilst the price of new cars has gone up in recent years, we've been able to hold - or in many cased drop - the screen price of our range".

"Our customers have always been a savvy bunch", he continued.

"They want the same level of quality and reliability as a brand new car. They want that 'new car smell' and feeling of pride & satisfaction you get from sliding in behind the wheel for the first time. But they also know that by opting for a model a year or two old they can get all of this for about half the price of a brand new car".

When asked about the other ingredients for his success, Karl was quick to answer: "Community". He went on to explain, "Thame is a fantastic place to live & work. We try to get involved in as many events and causes in the town as possible, and it's great to feel a part of something important."

Testimony to this can be easily found with a quick canvas of opinion in the High Street. 9 out of 10 people asked, quickly named THAME Cars as one of the town's most prominent and positive brands.

The recent decision to leave the EU has left many people reeling and uncertain about what the future holds. But in the middle of the turmoil, THAME Cars are confidently leading the way with their strong, and very evident values of quality, service, and customer care.

"The experience at Thame Cars was fantastic. Everything I asked for at the right price and on time. What more can you ask?."

Williams' drivers get tough ride in Austria

By Dominic Thomas

WILLIAMS finished disappointingly with just two points at the Red Bull Ring in Austria last weekend after a promising qualification.

Felipe Massa's retirement after 63 laps meant teammate Valtteri Bottas claimed the team's only points with a ninth place finish.

The pair had qualified with the Fin in eighth and Massa in tenth, but the Brazilian was made to start from the pit lane after replacing a damaged front wing, before having to retire from brake wear with less than 10 laps remaining.

Massa had managed to climb back into the points before retiring, while Bottas ran inside the top 10 throughout, but failed to gain places due to tyre graining.

The result saw Massa drop to ninth in the Drivers Championship behind Force India's Sergio Perez, while Bottas retained his seventh place.

Massa said: "The race was going ok for me, I was fighting and gaining positions from the start and I had a very good pace during most of the race.

"Unfortunately, I had a puncture and had to pit for new tyres. I had been saving the brakes for the whole race, but at the end I was close behind Gutierrez so the temperatures rose even more and I had to stop."

Meanwhile his teammate Bottas expressed his disappointment, saying: "We definitely expected more points today.

"The main problem was getting the tyres to work and to last, so that is something we need to understand before Silverstone because the temperatures could be similar to what they were here today.

"I don't think our car was too bad this weekend, we just really struggled to get the tyres to work. It was a disappointing day, but it's going to be very important to learn from today to move on."

Head of performance engineering Rob Smedley commented: "Our race with Felipe was dictated by our first priority, which is safety.

"We changed his front wing for safety reasons, which meant he had to start from the pitlane, so his race was never going to be easy.

"We subsequently had to retire him because of brake wear when the temperatures rocketed while he was behind Gutierrez, so that was the only safe thing to do."

The team will now look to improve at next weekend's British Grand Prix at Silverstone, where Williams will expect similar track temperatures.

Chief technical engineer Pat Symonds said: "Silverstone is another strong circuit for us and even though Austria did not deliver what it promised, there is no reason to think that our home race won't give us a strong result."

Seasons best for Haas so far

HAAS F1 collected more points last Sunday at the Red Bull Ring in Austria.

Romain Grosjean earned six points by finishing seventh in the Austrian Grand Prix and his teammate, Esteban Gutiérrez, finished 11th, one place off scoring, for the third time this season.

The results mark the fourth time this season the first American-led Formula One team in 30 years has scored a point-paying result.

Despite being caught for speeding - with a five-second penalty being applied at the end of the race – Grosjean rose to seventh, and as the laps wound down, he widened the gap between himself and eighth-place Sergio Perez.

Shortly after creating a margin of more than five seconds over Perez, the Force India driver made the situation moot by crashing on the final lap.

The seventh placed finished elevated Grosjean to 10th in the driver standings.

Gutiérrez, meanwhile, rallied to finish a respectable 11th.

Grosjean's seventh-place run combined with Gutiérrez's 11th-place finish in the Austrian Grand Prix marks Haas' best collective result this season.

They trail seventh placed McLaren by four points.

Renault impress on the day but fail to score any points

RENAULT moved up the order table after the Austrian Grand Prix as Jolyon Palmer finished just shy of the points in 12th position and Kevin Magnussen finished 14th.

Despite failing to collect any points, Palmer and Magnussen started the race in 20th and 17th position respectively.

The positions gained were despite a mid-race safety car and a five second penalty for Magnussen for blocking a rival.

Magnussen said: "The car felt good today and we made a reasonable first stint.

"Unfortunately the safety car didn't work for us and after that we weren't able to deliver the pace to get a stronger result.

"That said, both cars were there at the end which wasn't the same for a few teams today."

The Dane had no complaints with his penalty, saying: "I did move more than once and you're not allowed to do that; equally I didn't know which way he was looking to try to pass and sometimes it's difficult to make the right call."

Palmer said: "I'm quite happy with the race. We just needed that little bit of extra luck and we could have been right there within the points.

"The car was okay, it felt better than in the last round and this was probably one of my strongest races personally.

"I've been feeling stronger and stronger over the last few races and knowing we could have done well today makes me hopeful for points at the next round at Silverstone."

The pair are now looking forward to Silverstone this weekend, which Magnussen describes as "pretty much my home track".

United front up against two tough opponents

By Dominic Thomas

OXFORD United Women's enjoyed mixed fortunes after testing themselves against some strong opposition this week.

After drawing 2 – 2 with table toppers Yeovil Town in the league on Thursday, the U's then came up against league one's Birmingham in the Continental Tyres Cup, losing 2 – 0.

Eighth-place United proved tough opposition for the league leaders Yeovil, who left the Northcourt with just a point, after two first half goals from Ini Umotong left them reeling.

The Nigerian international striker, who has been in great scoring form with eight goals in 10 matches, netted twice against the Glovers.

The striker's double gave the Us an early lead in the first half, before the leaders soon fought back to level the scores by the end of the half.

The U's took the lead after just three minutes when Umotong raced onto Ella Franklin-Fraiture's ball forward, and poking it past onrushing Yeovil keeper Charlotte Haynes.

After a few more chances fell to Umotong and the Yeovil forwards at the other end, the striker extended the U's lead with a great solo effort, twisting through two challenges before rolling the ball past the keeper in off the post.

Their lead was to last just a minute before the visitors struck back when a Sarah Wiltshire header from a corner came off the post for Hannah Short to nod in on the rebound.

Ellis Hillman's volley for Yeovil looked to have levelled the scores before half time, only to be ruled out for an offside flag.

After the break the U's only managed to hold out 12 minutes before Ellie Curson caught Hannah Cox off her line, with a speculative shot.

And it was the visitors who pressed hardest for a winning goal as the game drew to a close, only to be thwarted by some superb United defending.

Late in the game, recent Chelsea loanee Laura Rafferty thought she had given Oxford the winner in just her second appearance for the club, nodding in from close range, before being ruled offside.

The Us then made two changes for their first round cup clash, with Demi Lambourne filling in in goal, and Ellie Noble replacing the injured defender Maddison Lee.

United managed to frustrate the league one side for much of the first half, with Rafferty blocking a shot on the line from goal threat Andrine Hegerberg in a scrappy opening.

Birmingham finally made their pressure pay 10 minutes before half time when Isabelle Linden was brought down in the box by Lambourne, with Hegerberg converting from the spot.

Umotong again posed a real threat throughout, being denied by keeper Sophie Baggaley and the woodwork late on.

But soon enough Melissa Lawley put the game to bed with a run through a crowded box, rolling the ball passed substitute goalkeeper Cox, to end the U's Cup hopes.

The U's will hope to bounce back from the defeat against London Bees on Sunday, with a defender Riva Casley being a notable absence, having received a called up for England Under-17s.

Saints winning streak goes on

OXFORD Saints continued their form with a sixth straight win over Bristol Apache on Sunday.

The close run game ended 29 – 26 to the hosts, after a tough test from the visitors.

The Apache scored three touchdowns courtesy of running back Jon Walters.

Meanwhile Oxford's James Walter scored, three touchdowns of his own, in a see-saw battle, in which Sam Fielden's boot gave the Saints a slight edge as the lead changed hands.

The game was turned after an important interception from that Saints' Misha Brooks, who then gifted Walter his third touchdown from 22 yards, off the second down.

Late in the game, Bristol tried to fight back through receiver Kev Shelbourn, who touched down from 4 yards out.

The Saints have now cemented their place at the top of Division Two after six consecutive wins and will now take on Cornish Sharks on July 10.

Teenager makes England debut

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD seam bowler Jamie King made his debut for the England Learning Disability cricket team this week.

The Oxfordshire cricketer, who has Asperger's Syndrome and attends Woodeaton Manor Special School in Oxford, made his debut in a loss against Hertfordshire Under-17s at Aston Rowant CC on July 3.

England LD were bowled out for 110 but, in Hertfordshire's reply, King came on as the first change bowler and bowled four good overs.

But Hertfordshire chased down the target losing only 1 wicket and won the game by nine wickets.

King was selected for the ECB Disability Cricket Regional Talent Development programme in 2014 and then to the Lions LD squad this season, which is the development squad for the full England LD side.

This led to his call up to the full England LD team, who in 2015 defeated Australia to win the INAS International cricket series 5-1 in Melbourne, Australia.

Speaking of his call up before his debut, he said: "I have been lucky to have great coaching and support from Oxfordshire, my club and the ECB disability programme.

"I just love playing cricket and I can't wait to pull on an England shirt."

King has been a member of Oxfordshire's Youth Player Pathway for the past two years as well as being a regular opening bowler in the U16/17 Development Squad.

He has been playing his club cricket at Great and Little Tew, where he has recently established himself in the second team.

Debut Olympics for Oxfordshire riders

By Dominic Thomas

TEAM GB has announced more Oxfordshire sportswomen will be flying out to the Rio Olympics next month as the equestrian team was named.

Horse riders Izzy Taylor, 33, from near Banbury, and former Bampton resident Kitty King, also 33, were named on Tuesday as part of the 12-strong squad.

They will both compete as part of the eventing team of four at Rio, alongside three time Olympic gold medallist William Fox-Pitt.

Olympic debutants Taylor, on her mare Allercombe Ellis, and Kitty, who rides Ceylor L A N, complete the eventing line-up, along with fellow first-time Olympian Gemma Tattersall.

Team GB's equestrian team has won 32 medals in former Olympics. It also includes reigning world, Olympic and European dressage champion Charlotte Dujardin, and 2012 London Olympic dressage gold medalist Carl Hester.

King, who used to live in Lew, near Bampton, has since moved to Wiltshire.

She said: "It's probably the best phone call I've ever had; it's something that I dreamt of as a child.

"It's really special for the whole support team at home too; the amount of work that they put in is incredible, it's definitely not just about me and the horse, it's about everyone else behind us too.

"None of it would be possible without my sponsors and UK Sport support; it's made a massive difference."

Team GB equestrian team leader, Dan Hughes, added: "The team we have selected represents the strength in depth of talent we are lucky enough to enjoy in equestrian sport in the UK, and the mix of both experience and new talent across the three equestrian events in Rio.

"None of this would be possible without the support of National Lottery funding via UK Sport.

"Five of our 12 riders will be competing at an Olympic Games for the first time, whilst some will be competing at their fifth, sixth and even seventh Olympic Games.

"There is a robust team spirit amongst our athletes, staff, grooms and our all-important owners that underpins the strongest desire to win medals in Rio. As a team we go there with that single focus".

Netball awards

NETBALL: Didcot Netball Club celebrated their annual awards evening with England Netball star Ama Agbeze.

Hosted at Didcot Town Football Club at Loop Meadow Stadium the celebrations honoured players' achievements. Senior player of the year went to Lauren Townson while the junior prize went to Emily Thorne.

The trophies were presented by surprise special guest, Agbeze. The defender captained England for the first time in the Netball Europe tournament earlier this year.

Club chairman, Mandy Blair, said: "The club has continued to grow and develop in terms of both numbers and performance."

Oxford battered

RUGBY LEAGUE: Oxford RL were trounced 76-12 away at high-flying Barrow Raiders in Kingstone Press League 1 on Sunday.

The Oxford side conceded 13 tries and could only reply with two of their own.

Both came from Jordan Gill, while Nathan Kitson and Danny Allan added Oxford's conversions. Andy Litherland scored four tries for Barrow and converted 12 of the 13.

Oxford remain third from bottom with one game left.

Pepperell makes the cut in France

OXFORDSHIRE'S Eddie Pepperell ended a run of three straight missed cuts, finishing tied 45th last week in Paris at the 100th Open de France.

Despite recording two rounds of 71, Pepperell finished in France on +6.

Pars were recorded on days one and four, but successive +3s on Friday and Saturday in between meant the Oxford-born golfer drifted way behind the chasing pack.

With the cut at +4, Pepperell only just made it by one shot.

Three successive bogeys on the fourth, fifth and sixth on the Saturday, while recording a total of +4 for the front nine, was telling and he could not recover.

Pepperell failed to gain any consistency – he birdied three holes on the front nine in round two, but these were cancelled out by double bogeys on the first and 17th holes.

But it was the first prize money the world 154 has won since May.

Thongchai Jaidee won in France recording -11 for the tournament, with Francesco Molinari and Northern Ireland's Rory McIlory rounding off the top three on -7 and -6 respectively.

Pepperell tees off at the Aberdeen Asset Management Scottish Open today, where he has been grouped with Swede Alex Noren and fellow Brit Oliver Wilson.

Teenage tennis ace faults at Wimbledon - to number one

OXFORDSHIRE teenager Alexis Canter fell to a gracious defeat in the first round of the junior boys' Wimbledon tennis championships.

The 18-year-old from Long Wittenham lost 7-6, 7-5 on Tuesday to the world junior number one Stefanos Tsitsipas, from Greece.

During the tight match, there was only one break of serve but it was enough for number one seed Tsitsipas to clinch the victory in the first round of the boys' singles.

Canter, who is ranked 61st in the ITF Juniors rankings, gained entry into the All England Club tournament as a wildcard.

Tsitsipas is not only top of the ITF Junior rankings, but 358 on the adults ATP World Tour.

Speaking to the BBC after his match, he said: "It was only down to one or two points – he upped his game on the big points maybe a few more times than I did.

"I'm a bit gutted but I'm very happy with how I competed against number one in the world, but I wasn't going into the match thinking he was amazing.

"He served very well but I could have been a bit more alert and learnt how to play the big points well against the top players.

"The only way to improve is to learn from the losses and I think I do that pretty well generally. Sometimes you get more motivation from a loss than when you win"

Canter, who will be 19 years old at next year's Wimbledon, will be too old to play in the junior event and is looking to step up to the men's circuit.

Hedges re-signs for the Stars

OXFORD City Stars have announced the re-signing of last season's alternative captain Dax Hedges.

Hedges, who plays primarily as a forward. said: "I've been working most weekends as I've not been playing – I have also got married so I have had a few weekends of parties.

"I am really looking forward to it [next season] after our success of last season."

Coach Simon Anderson added: "I have nothing but good things to say about Dax – he is the heart and soul of this team, [and he] plays bigger than his size.

"He prides himself on his work ethic and being a solid defensive forward – he puts his body on the line every night and I always said that if we had 20 Dax Hedges, we would have won a championship already."

Meanwhile, the window end of Oxford Ice Rink is to be renamed 'The Elliott End' during Oxford City Stars matches, in honour of Norman and Darren Elliott for their commitment to the club.

Norman Elliott, who passed away in 2011, was an employee at Oxford Ice Rink maintaining the ice surface.

Darren Elliott has played for Stars across 20 years, amassing over 400 appearances and scoring 250 goals.

U's unveil new kit and double signing

IT has been another busy week for Oxford United, with the club unveiling their new kit for the 2016/17 campaign and signing their fifth and sixth players of the season.

The new home kit continues the retro theme from last season's home shirts and also features the new permanent club badge; a simple Ox head that marked the club's 1986 Milk Cup win.

The new kit unveiling also marked the official opening of the newly revamped club shop, which was refitted over the summer.

Chairman Darryl Eales was present to cut the ribbon to officially open the store.

The away strip is to be launched today.

The club also announced two new singings this week, making it six in two weeks.

Midfielder Dan Crowley, 18, joins Oxford from Premiership outfit Arsenal on a season-long loan, while defender Curtis Nelson, 23, joins from Plymouth Argyle after he turned down a new contract in Devon.

The highly rated centre back made over 200 senior appearances for Plymouth, captaining the side for most of those games.

He played against the U's twice last season, scoring in the 2-2 draw at Home Park.

Crowley, who spent the first half of last season on loan at League One play-off winners Barnsley, can play just behind the striker, in midfield or coming in off the flanks.

By George Welch

Head coach Michael Appleton has praised the club's ability to attract such a creative attacking midfielder in Crowley.

He said: "He has a fantastic future ahead of him and it's great that Oxford is starting to build a reputation as a club where we can work with young players like Dan, nurture them and play a role in their development."

The pair join Aaron Martin, Wes Thomas, Simon Eastwood and Christian Ribeiro as the club's new boys.

Meanwhile, former United striker Jordan Bowery signed for League Two side Leyton Orient following his release from the club last month.

The former Aston Villa youngster, now 25, scored seven goals in 20 appearances for Appleton's side last season after joining the club in the January transfer window on a short-term deal.

Oxford United kick off their pre-season with a friendly match away at Solihull Moors this Saturday.
